

versary at their house.

Q And where was the house?

A I believe this was the Volta Street house. It was the house anyway that was walled -- that had a garden walled in. I can describe it if you like.

Q With a walled-in garden?

A That is right, and you walked up several steps after you passed through the gate, and the entrance was to the left as you went in, on a little stone porch, I believe.

Q That is what is called Volta Place?

A Volta Place.

Q Volta Place.

A Well, it -- ^Q There is a Volta Place in Georgetown. I presume this was in Georgetown?

A Yes.

Q There is a Volta Place. And Mr. and Mrs. Hiss did live there. And I believe you have described the house. I mean it has a walled-in garden, and you had to walk down an areaway when you come in, and you walked from there and up and down two or three steps and then into the house.
